Introductory Elements Quiz

5. Use commas to set off extra information.

A nonessential expression provides additional information about someone or something in a sentence. However, the nonessential expression can be left out without changing the meaning of the sentence.

ESSENTIAL AND NONESSENTIAL EXPRESSIONS
Appositive	Essential	My sister Joanne went to the Nicollet Mall in Minnesota.
	Nonessential	Joanne, my sister, went to the Nicollet Mall in Minnesota.
Participial Phrase	Essential	The teacher wearing a blue dress took the students to the mall.
	Nonessential	Mrs. Goff, wearing a blue dress, took the students to the mall.
Adjective Clause	Essential	The mall that we enjoyed the most had three levels and a swimming pool.
	Nonessential	The Pine-Woods Center, which was our favorite, had three levels and a swimming pool.

a. Use a comma to set off nonessential clauses and (clauses that add info that is not necessary to the main idea of the sentence and begin with the words who, whose, whom, which or that).

- Ex: (Clause) Crystal Hudson, who is at the top of her class, wants to go to medical school.

Essential clauses—All students whose names are on that list must report here.

Practice One

b. Use commas to set off elements that interrupt the sentence

Ex: Joyce, by the way, sends her love.

Practice One

c. Use commas to set off parenthetical expressions, which are side remarks that add information or relate ideas.

Ex: On the contrary, I am glad that you told me about the error.

- She will, I think, enjoy the play.

d. Use commas to set off appositives.

Ex: My dog, an English Setter, is very gentle.

Practice One

e. Use a comma to set off nonessential participial phrases (phrases that add info that is not necessary to the main idea of the sentence).

Ex: (Clause) Crystal Hudson, who is at the top of her class, wants to go to medical school.

(Phrase) Romeo and Juliet, written by William Shakespeare, is a story of love at first sight.

Nonessential Elements Practice One

f. Use a comma when addressing someone using their name: Rebecca, will you see me after class? (Noun of Address)

Practice One

g. Use commas to set off contrasting elements that use the word 'not':

Ex:

- Sandra, not her brother, plays soccer.
- English, not math, is my favorite subject.

6. Use commas to set off quotations.

Explanatory word before quote: comma goes outside “”

John said, “I will do my best.”

Explanatory word after quote: comma goes inside “”

“I will do my best,” said John.

Divided quote: inside/outside rule

“Mom,” Emily yelled, “I want to go to the mall.”

Practice One

7. Other rules:

Use commas in addresses after the town/city:

Ex: 2440 West Pine Street
Mount Airy, NC 27030

When written in a sentence: Please mail the package to North Surry High School, 2440 West Pine Street, Mount Airy, NC 27030.
